<input type="checkbox"/> W21: African Ore Genesis Research Networks: Building a Pan-African Collaboration	This half-day interactive workshop will be held as a post-conference workshop on the 27th of September at the Colloquium of African Geology (CAG 30) in Nairobi. The workshop will address African-specific challenges by creating a structured platform for continental researchers to map current expertise, identify research gaps, and establish concrete pathways for sustained Pan-African collaboration. The workshop will facilitate the formation of an African ore genesis research network that enhances the collective capacity to tackle the continent's complex metallogenic systems, while fostering both continental and North-South and South-South knowledge exchange and resource sharing. Expected Outcomes • Regional expertise map highlighting research strengths and gaps • 3-5 concrete collaboration proposals • Sustainable networking framework, including communication channels and regular meetups • Participant database with tagged expertise for ongoing collaboration • Priority research agenda	USD 25.00
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> W03: Reporting of Mineral Resources Using International Reporting Codes (PARC & JORC)CAG30 Field Trips	"This short course provides a comprehensive understanding of mineral resource and reserve reporting under internationally recognized standards, including the Pan African Resource Reporting Code (PARC) and the JORC Code. Participants will gain insights into the principles of transparency, materiality, and competence in public reporting, with a focus on classification, estimation, and disclosure requirements. The course covers best practices for preparing compliant technical reports, the role of Competent Persons, and the implications of mineral reporting for investment, regulation, and stock exchange listings. Target Audience: Professionals and stakeholders in the mineral industry, including geoscientists, mining engineers, aspiring mining professionals, mineral industry regulators, public and private managers of mining companies, mining policy regulators, and stock exchange personnel. Mode of learning: Face-to-face, online Prerequisites: Basic knowledge of mineral exploration, resource	USD 200.00
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> W08: Innovative	"This workshop aims to develop innovative and inclusive strategies to improve geoscience	USD
